Launch of BAPAURA, a European project aiming at developing a public building energy renovation support service for small municipalities in the French Region of Auvergne-Rhône-Alpes

BAPAURA saw the light of day in September 2020 in Lyon, France. This project is fruit of multiple months of cooperation between the French Agency for Ecological Transition, ADEME, the Regional Agency for Energy and Environment, AURA-EE and 9 local energy renovation stakeholders.

What’s next?

Tangible investment over 3 years

The European Union financed the project with the condition to invest 23 627 000 € in the refurbishment of a set of public buildings within the partner’s built stock by the end of the project.

Two levels of action

- An energy renovation support service by the territorial partners. They will provide, share and build on their energy performance and financial engineering expertise with the aim to see through the project’s energy refurbishment projects and help others do likewise.

- A regional facilitation carried by ADEME and AURA-EE to align the objectives of the regional toolbox with the National and European standards and ambitions.
A three year project
